

Office of Science (OS)
Office of Public Health Ethics and Regulations (OPHER) (proposed)
Public Health Ethics Lead

Opening Date: January 31, 2023

Closing Date: February 6, 2023

The Office of Science, Office of Public Health Ethics and Regulations (OPHER) (proposed- formerly Office of Scientific Integrity) is seeking a dynamic and experienced candidate to serve as Public Health Ethics Lead (Health Scientist, GS-601-14). The Public Health Ethics Lead is responsible for supporting and guiding Agency efforts to ensure CDC scientific work meets the highest ethical principles and standards for scientific integrity. The Public Health Ethics Leads serves as an agency SME providing consultation, technical assistance, tools/resources, and trainings related to the various ethical and regulatory obligations that govern CDC scientists' work. The incumbent is knowledgeable of ethical principles and standards for scientific integrity, as well as laws and policies impacting ethics that govern scientific work and the ability to identify, analyze, and resolve ethical issues that arise in public health practice and implementation.

To apply, visit the job announcement:

USAJOBS - Job Announcement (External Announcement -- Open to the Public)

USAJOBS - Job Announcement (Internal Announcement)

Major Duties:

- Serve as the Public Health Ethics Lead in the Office of Science
- Provide leadership and coordinate activities related to public health ethics
- Utilize expertise in public health ethics and integrity to provide consultation to support the development of scientific research, policy and objectives, and public health science
- Collaborates with scientists, programs, and public health partners of various aspects of public health program and science to ensure public health ethics considerations
- Plans work to be accomplished by subordinates, sets, and adjusts short-term priorities

For questions related to this job announcement, please contact OS Management Office OSManagementOffice@cdc.gov.