

Instructor or Assistant Professor of the Practice in Management (Business Ethics)

The Dolan School of Business at Fairfield University invites applications for a position of Professor of the Practice in Business Ethics at the Instructor or Assistant Professor level in the Management Department, beginning Fall 2023. This is a non-tenure track fixed term renewable position with a teaching load of four courses each semester. Candidates should have relevant teaching experience and a Master's degree in a field (i.e. philosophy, religious studies, and social sciences) that allows for a focus on ethics. Those with a relevant Ph.D. degree or a JD from an accredited law school are preferred. Candidates should have a primary focus on business ethics. Those individuals with experience of working with businesses on ethics issues are of particular interest. They will be required to demonstrate a facility in student academic advising. Additionally, applicants should have demonstrated experience in programmatic development. Candidates must have a strong commitment to teaching, with demonstrated experience and verified excellence. Strong applicants will be committed to: cross-disciplinary collaboration and collegiality; the development of innovative and creative classroom educational experience; a commitment to innovation and demonstrated excellence in using technology in the classroom; service to the department, school of business, university, community and profession.

Fairfield University is a Jesuit, Catholic institution, located in the scenic shoreline community of Fairfield, CT, one hour from New York City along Long Island Sound. It is highly ranked in the Northern Region by U.S. News & World Report, Best Colleges 2022. The Dolan School of Business at Fairfield University is AACSB International accredited and is ranked among US News and Princeton Review's best undergraduate and graduate on-campus business schools. The University's 200-acre campus includes five College and Professional Schools that enroll approximately 4,303 undergraduate students and 1,046 graduate students. The Dolan School of Business educates approximately one-third of the University's undergraduate students and one-fifth of the University's graduate students.

Application Instructions: Review of applications will begin immediately. Applications will be accepted and reviewed until the position is filled. Only complete files will be reviewed by the search committee. For full consideration, please click "https://ffd.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/EmploymentOpportunities/details/Instructor-or-Assistant-Professor-of-the-Practice--Management_JR0001569" and upload the following materials:

- a curriculum vitae
- a letter of application
- research and scholarship statement
- statement of teaching philosophy and evaluations
- three letters of reference

Note: If you have more than 5 documents to upload to your application, simply combine them into 5 or less documents. Questions can be directed to Mousumi Bhattacharya, Chair, Search Committee, at managementsearch@fairfield.edu

The salary and benefits for the position are competitive. The application link on the Fairfield University site is active. Applications will be accepted and reviewed until the position is filled.

Fairfield University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, committed to excellence through diversity, and, in this spirit, particularly welcomes applications from women, persons of color, Veterans, Jesuits and members of historically underrepresented groups. The University will provide reasonable accommodations to all qualified individuals with a disability.